Use Strong Passwords

1.	Adjective
2.	Adjective
3.	Animal
4.	Sport
5.	Verb Present Ends In Ing
6.	Activity
	Vehicle
8.	Occupation
9.	Holiday
10.	Word Starting With L
11.	Word Starting With N
12.	Word Starting With O
13.	Word Starting With R
14.	Family Relation
15.	Number
16.	Adjective
17.	Noun
18.	Adjective
19.	Country
20.	Noun
21.	Verb Present Ends In Ing
	Noun

Use Strong Passwords

Password Security

Not all passwords are the same. Some are while others are We want to make secure ones. For starters, don't use your name, your pet 's name, or the name of your favorite professionalteam. Secure passwords shouldn't be connected to you, so save that self-expression for your creative take a scientist or brain to create a strong password. Here's one trick for password making that you can share with your friends and family at your Cook Out.
Take four random letters. For example, L N O R.
Now make a short phrase with words that begin with those letters.
Word Starting with L Word Starting with N Word Starting with O Word Starting with R Use those four words as a passphrase, a password but longer and more secure. It's so simple and easy, even your cranky will thank you. There's just one catch. You need unique passwords for every account.

Did you know	v the average perso	on has over _	Number	_ internet acco	ounts? Whe	ther it's a _	Adjective name like Am	nazon, a specialty _	Noun	_ store, or a s	ervice that stre	eams	Adjective	_ films from Country	, they all require	e an account.	Some people	just use the sa	me passwo	rd and wri	te it down on a Noun	_ they hide under t	their keyboar	d. A passwore	d manager can	create and	remember	the passwords for you.
Passphrases a	nd password mana	igers take the	worry out of	passwords, so	you can fo	cus your m	nind on
Verb Present	ends in ING the	train or that n	ice Noun	you'll be	cooking w	hen you ge	et home after work
Use Strong Pa	asswords: Create le	ong, unique p	asswords. Ke	ep track of the	m with a pa	assword m	anager. Protect them with two	o step verification.
©2020 WordBlar	nks.com · All Rights Re	eserved.					